Research Study on “Stimulating Women’s Entrepreneurship through Affirmative Procurement in the Public and Private Sector”

Background:
UN Women brings its technical expertise in gender equality and links with the global women’s movement to the UN Women Pakistan mission to strengthen the effectiveness, coordination, and quality of outputs of the UN mission on gender equality. The strategy in Pakistan encompasses strengthening the capacity of government, non-governmental organizations and UN system to deliver on Pakistan’s national and international commitments to gender equality and women’s empowerment by ensuring that voices of women and human rights based approach is integrated fully in the development agenda of the country.

UN Women Pakistan’s Women’s Economic Empowerment (WEE) Programme has been supporting implementation of national commitments and international frameworks around promoting economic opportunities for women, and in particular supporting the development of provincial homebased workers’ policies and laws to improve the working conditions of the many rural and urban women in Pakistan undertaking informal homebased work.

UN Women’s main objective in the WEE area is to empower women to fully participate in economic life across all sectors and at all levels of economic activity so that they have better chances to earn higher incomes, have increased access, control and awareness over resources and have greater security and protection from violence. The WEE programme interventions are aligned with UN Women’s global strategic plan results and focus on economic empowerment of excluded women groups in the country.

Gender equality is not only a fundamental human right, but a necessary foundation for peaceful, prosperous and sustainable world. Providing women and girls with equal access to education, health care, decent work, and representation in political and economic decision-making processes can fuel sustainable economies and benefit societies and humanity at large.

Despite the reported economic growth in the past few years, Pakistan is ranked 143, (out of 144 countries) in the World Economic Forum’s Gender Gap Report 2017, and the same report ranks Pakistan 143 out of 144 countries in the index on Economic Participation and Opportunity. The issue of women’s economic rights and security has been a major concern for the nation, especially from the perspective of most marginalized segment as single women, rural women, transgender women, women with disabilities and those affected by HIV/AIDS.
Pakistan with the population of 207 million\textsuperscript{1} is the 10th largest country in the world according to the size of the labour force. The recent labour force survey in Pakistan has pointed out that the percentage of women in labour force is only 24\%\textsuperscript{2} and in urban areas it falls down to only 12\%\textsuperscript{3}. Data reveals that female labour force participation in Pakistan is still well below levels in other countries with similar incomes, despite the growth by more than half over the past 2 decades. Even among women with a high level of education, labour force participation is low—only about 25\% of Pakistani women who have a university degree work outside the home\textsuperscript{4}. Women’s low labour force participation results in a significant potential loss of productivity. Women are increasingly concentrated in sectors like domestic work, home-based work, agricultural work, garment factories – in all forms of vulnerable work that have least protection. Besides socio-cultural barriers that hinder women’s opportunity for mobility, lack of education and skills to participate in the workforce on an equal footing, research indicates that inadequate data on women home based workers and women’s unpaid work also impact their participation in the labour force\textsuperscript{5}.

Furthermore, Pakistan has the lowest rate of female entrepreneurship in the world, with only 1\% of female entrepreneurs compared to 25\% of male entrepreneurs\textsuperscript{6}. Access to viable economic opportunities is one of the main factors that has prevented women from engaging in entrepreneurial activities.

Justification

Public and private sector procurement offers a unique, fiscally responsible route to empower women, combat poverty and promote inclusive economic growth. Public procurement accounts for as much as 10–15\% of gross domestic product (GDP) in developed countries and over 30\% of GDP in developing countries. This translates into trillions of dollars of government spending annually to empower women. Research also shows that there is a positive correlation between gender equality and a country’s GDP per capita. When women are excluded from the marketplace, the economy suffers. Promoting gender equality is, in the words of former World Bank President Robert Zoellick, ‘smart economics’. The same applies to using public procurement policy to stimulate entrepreneurial activity by women-owned businesses\textsuperscript{7}.

As both market regulators and participants, governments are in a unique position to change this and benefit from enlarging the pool of potential suppliers. Investing in women-owned businesses would pay dividends in terms of creating jobs and development in the country. Small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) are the engines for job growth in the world economy, accounting for nearly 80% of jobs worldwide. Increasing their competitiveness increases their likelihood of success, expansion and job creation. It would also reflect into the social dividends, as women entrepreneurs tend to reinvest up to 90% of their earnings in their families and communities, which links inclusive economic growth directly to development.

Investing in women-owned businesses and integrating them into corporate supply chains is “smart economics” and good for business. Today, women-owned businesses contribute significantly to the world economy, generating millions of new employment opportunities and spurring local development. But their full economic potential remains largely untapped or underutilized. As of 2013, for example, more than one third of all firms worldwide had women owners, yet they receive a mere one per cent of corporate procurement spend. The Boston Consulting Group described the women’s market as “the most important commercial opportunity in our lifetime.” Today, women control about $20 trillion in annual consumer spending and, by 2028, will control nearly 75 per cent of consumer discretionary spending worldwide. Studies show women, in particular, are more likely to try a company’s products when they know the company supports women-owned businesses. They are also more likely to develop brand loyalty8. Which reveals that this is not only good for women’s empowerment but also a business case for corporates.

In Pakistan, women entrepreneurs have been largely excluded from this sizeable market due to lack of access to information on bids, understanding of procedures, and ability to meet requirements. Sincere and committed efforts from Government and corporate sector in Pakistan in terms of creating more opportunities for women can enhance their participation rate in economic activity. This reality is evident from developed economies where the profile of female participation is increasingly becoming similar to that of men and the rates are also improving to match that of male levels. In few countries, governments have allocated specific percentage of their fiscal budgets for women-owned business.

Further, Pakistan does not have data available that reflects the percentage allocation in public and private sector procurement from women owned businesses. Neither is there any credible data on the women owned enterprises in Pakistan that operate and provide goods and services to the public and private sector companies. This research study, therefore, would inform government of Pakistan and the private sector about the available opportunities of procuring from women owned enterprises and will also support the government and private sector companies, particularly multinational companies, in developing policies to support these enterprises. Finally, it would serve as a powerful public and private sector procurement tool to promote socioeconomic objectives in the country. The Study will be a combination of both desk review and field study. A detailed methodology will be devised once the consultant/firm is on board.

8 UN Women 2017, Corporate Guide to Gender-Responsive Procurement
Procter and Gamble (P&G) serves nearly 5 billion consumers around the world today. The company has one of the largest and strongest portfolios of trusted, quality, leadership brands. P&G in Pakistan continues to play an active role in promoting supplier diversity within its organization. Encouraging women entrepreneurs to enter corporate supply chain has been one of the top priority of the organization.

In this context, UN Women is seeking the services of an individual consultancy firm specialized in the area of public and private procurement policy and procedures. Under the overall guidance of the Deputy Representative and direct supervision of the Programme Specialist, WEE, the consultancy firm will complete the following two assignments:

Assignment 01: Conduct a comprehensive mapping study of existing women-owned businesses in Pakistan who can become P&G suppliers.

Tasks and Responsibilities:

a. Develop detailed work plan including methodology and timeline for achieving desired objectives and share with UN Women for feedback and revise accordingly;

b. Prepare an inception report, covering the background, objectives, methodological approach, work plan and deliverables (within two weeks of signing of the contract);

c. Identify potential women-owned businesses who could become P&G suppliers;

d. Assess capacity of potential women-owned businesses based on the P&G requirements;

e. Analyze the existing procurement processes of P&G and put forward recommendations to make the women own businesses (more) accessible and friendly to women;

f. Identify entry points to develop linkages of the women-owned businesses with P&G.

Assignment 02: Produce evidence based research study on “Stimulating Women’s Entrepreneurship through Affirmative Public and Private Procurement in Pakistan”.

Tasks and Responsibilities:

a. Develop detailed work plan including methodology and timeline for achieving desired objectives and share with UN Women for feedback and incorporation;

b. Prepare an inception report, covering the background, objectives, methodological approach, work plan and deliverables (within two weeks of signing of the contract);

c. Review the existing public-sector procurement policies, current government procurement expenditure and identify if special consideration is given to women-owned businesses;
d. Identify and review public procurement procedures, information on bids, and requirements;
e. Explore if women are specifically focused in private sector procurement policies;
f. Explore the extent of women-owned businesses from whom goods/services are being procured including number of businesses, nature of business, industry involved; major clients, annual turnover;
g. Identify and deepen the understanding of the challenges faced by women-owned businesses in the public and private procurement sphere;
h. Identify capacity enhancement needs of women-owned businesses including application for bids;

DELIVERABLES

Expected final deliverables include:

a. A comprehensive mapping study of existing women-owned businesses in Pakistan who can become P&G suppliers.

b. A evidence based research study on “Stimulating Women’s Entrepreneurship through Affirmative Public and Private Procurement in Pakistan”.

The consultancy firm will submit both the deliverables in hard and soft copies to UN Women, in print ready version (with designing, editing and formatting professionally completed).

Prior to the finalization and final submission of the two deliverables, the consultant/firm will submit the two draft deliverables to UN Women for review and incorporate all feedback from UN Women in the final version that will be submitted for approval.

• An agreed work plan within two weeks of signing of contract that includes a proposed schedule of tasks, activities and deliverables, research tools to be developed.

UN Women Pakistan in no case will be responsible or liable for any cost, regardless of the conduct or outcome of the solicitation outside the proposal. The offer should break down the lump sum amount based on actual cost of each deliverable.
Annex III

Evaluation Methodology and Criteria

1. Cumulative Analysis Methodology: A proposal selected based on cumulative analysis where total score is obtained upon a combination of the weighted technical and financial attributes.

A two-stage procedure will be utilized in evaluating of the proposals; the technical proposal will be evaluated with a minimum pass requirement of 70% of the obtainable 800 points assigned for technical proposal. A proposal shall be rejected at this stage if it fails to achieve the minimum technical threshold of 70% of the obtainable score of 800 points prior to any price proposal being opened and compared. The financial proposal will be opened only for those entities whose technical proposal achieved the minimum technical threshold of 70% of the obtainable score of 800 points and are determined to be compliant. Non-compliant proposals will not be eligible for further consideration.

The total number of points which a firm/institution may obtain for its proposal is as follows (80% technical proposal and 20% financial proposal):

- Technical proposal: 800 points
- Financial proposal: 200 points
- Total number of points: 1000 points

Evaluation of financial proposal:

In this methodology, the maximum number of points assigned to the financial proposal is allocated to the lowest price proposal. All other price proposals receive points in inverse proportion.

A formula is as follows:

Where:

- \( p \) = points for the financial proposal being evaluated
- \( y \) = maximum number of points for the financial proposal
- \( \mu \) = price of the lowest priced proposal
- \( z \) = price of the proposal being evaluated
The contract shall be awarded to the proposal obtaining the overall highest score after adding the score of the technical proposal and the financial proposal.

Evaluation of technical proposal:

The technical proposal is evaluated and examined to determine its responsiveness and compliancy with the requirements specified in this solicitation documents. The quality of each technical proposal will be evaluated in accordance with the following technical evaluation criteria and the associated weighting (total possible value of 800 points):

Format of Financial Proposal

The Financial Proposal must be prepared as a separate PDF file from the rest of the RFP response as indicated in Clause 3.4.1 of the Instruction to Proposers. The components comprising the total price must provide sufficient detail to allow UN Women to determine compliance of proposal with requirements as per TOR of this RFP. The Proposer shall include a complete breakdown of the cost elements associated with each line item and those costs associated with any proposed subcontract/sub-awards (separate breakdown) for the duration of the contract. Provide separate figures for each functional grouping or category.

Estimates for cost-reimbursable items, if any, such as travel, and out of pocket expenses should be listed separately.

In case of an equipment component to the service provided, the Financial Proposal should include figures for both purchase and lease/rent options. UN Women reserves the option to either lease/rent or purchase outright the equipment through the Contractor.

In addition, the financial proposal must include, but not necessarily be limited to, the following documents:

1. A summary of the price in words and figures
   a. Price breakdown: The price must cover all the services to be provided and must itemize the following:
      a. An all-inclusive fee rate per working day for each expert to be assigned to the team. The fee rate must include remuneration of each expert, all administrative costs of employing the expert and the margin covering the Proposer overhead and backstopping facilities.
      b. An all-inclusive daily subsistence allowance (DSA) rate for every day in which the experts shall be in the field for purposes of the assignment.
      c. An all-inclusive amount for necessary international travel and related expenses by the most appropriate means of transport and the most direct economy class practicable route. The breakdown shall indicate the number of round trips per team member.
      d. An all-inclusive amount for local travel, if applicable.
      e. If applicable, other costs required for purposes of the assignment not covered in the foregoing or beneath paragraphs such as communication, printing and dispatching of reports to be produced during the assignment, rental and freight of any instruments or equipment required to be provided by the Proposer for the purposes of the services, office accommodation, investigations, surveys, etc.
      f. Summary of total cost for the services proposed.
ii. Schedule of payments: Proposed schedule of payment might be expressed by the Proposer, and payment will be made by UN Women in the currency of the proposal. The payment schedule must be linked to the delivery of the outputs specified in your technical component.

All prices/rates quoted must be exclusive of all taxes, since the United Nations, including its subsidiary organs, is exempt from taxes.

NOTE: In case two (2) proposals are evaluated and found to be the same ranking in terms of technical competency and price, UN Women will award offer to the company that is either women owned or has women in majority shareholding in support of UN Women’s core mandate. In the case that both companies are women owned or have women in majority shareholding, UN Women will request best and final offer from both proposers and shall make a final comparison of the competing proposers.
